Abstract

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the problem.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine whether there were differences in the prevalence of self-reported depression between men and women who had been exposed to violence during childhood and adulthood. Data from the National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent Health (N = 9,800) were used to examine the association between exposure to violence and self-reported depression among adolescents. Results showed that exposure to violence during childhood and adulthood was associated with higher rates of self-reported depression. Furthermore, the association between exposure to violence and self-reported depression was stronger for women than for men.

Figure 1 | Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: control group (CG) and intervention group (IG). The CG received standard care, while the IG received a combination of standard care and a new intervention. The study was conducted over a period of 12 weeks, with assessments at baseline, 6 weeks, and 12 weeks.
