Figure 1 | Flowchart of the study design. The flowchart illustrates the study design, starting with 1000 patients in the first cohort, 1000 patients in the second cohort, and 1000 patients in the third cohort. The first cohort is divided into 500 patients with a positive result and 500 patients with a negative result. The second cohort is divided into 500 patients with a positive result and 500 patients with a negative result. The third cohort is divided into 500 patients with a positive result and 500 patients with a negative result. The flowchart also shows the number of patients who were included in the analysis, with 500 patients in the first cohort, 500 patients in the second cohort, and 500 patients in the third cohort.

Figure 1. The effect of the number of trials on the number of correct responses. The number of correct responses was significantly higher than the number of incorrect responses in all conditions. The number of correct responses was significantly higher than the number of incorrect responses in all conditions. The number of correct responses was significantly higher than the number of incorrect responses in all conditions.
